NEWPORT DAILY NEWS.

MONDAY, May 11, 1863.

FOR PRESIDENT, ULYSSES S. GRANT.

THE SUSPENSE.

This is the last day in which the country will be kept in suspense as to the result of the impeachment trial. The decisive yet will be taken to-morrow. As might be expected there is a profound interest awakened among men of all parties and in all sects.

The secret of the deliberations of the Senate affords wide latitude for rumors. The vast interests suspended upon the decision, tender men anxious, nervous, excitable. They listen to all stories. They are disposed to be credulous. They speak of their hopes and their fears, their suspicions and their apprehensions. This is natural, but mischief may come of it. Senators named may be maligned, and false rumors may be circulated and controversies calculated to breed unnecessary antagonisms.

The safe way for people at this distance is to doubt every rumor which places any Senator in an unfavorable light, and to believe such charges only when verified. We observe denunciations in some quarters against Senators for possible acts. If these Senators should yet be found right on the record, how mean as well as unjust such denunciations will appear.

After the record is made up, the popular verdict will deal with Senators. Thus far the trial has been conducted with unqualified fairness. The people have been as calm as the Chief Justice. They await the verdict as it will. When it shall be rendered, they will scrutinize motives, and pronounce upon conduct. They will know who have been highlighted, patriotic, and just. They will know who, if any one, has been controlled by personal jealousy, and suffered hatred of a rival to warp judgment. The country is watching the pending deliberations, gathering all information that is available from within the Senate, and awaiting the result. It demands justice. It knows what the verdict ought to be; it has learned not to trust overmuch in men, but if power shall trample on the laws, and the criminal shall escape, it will write the names of the weak and wicked judges, of the hypocrites of loyalty, to be hated and despised while language shall endure.

Colored Delegates.

The republicans of Virginia have put one colored man upon the list of delegates at large, to the Chicago Convention, and several other states have also sent negro delegates. There will, of course, be no objection to their admission, for we take it that these men, being voters, have a right to a voice with others in the selection of Candidates. It is a long while in advance for the colored men of the Southern States, but presents, no more remarkable features than are seen in other changes that have taken place within the past few years. The fact is, the negro has come to be a citizen in this country and must be recognised as such in politics as well as in trade and commerce. In three or four States the colored people are in the majority, and in half a dozen the vote for next President will be decided by their ballots. As Grant was the leader of the armies that won their freedom, they will now rejoice in the opportunity of giving their votes for the high position for which he is suited.

Savage Warfare.

Under this head the evening Post criticizes severely the conduct of General Napper in his punishment of the Abyssinians, and thinks the course pursued quite too harsh. We should suppose it would be well to make an impression in some manner upon the savages of the east by which they should forbear the practice of their barbarisms towards such strangers as fall into their hands, and this was doubtless what was intended to be done. That the pronunciation of the English was very great, considering the expense and loss of life growing out of the expedition, all will admit. But it would seem that after Theodore was killed and the power of the Empire completely broken the women and children might have been spared.

The town of Magdala has been razed to the rock on which it stood. A few hundreds of people, already miserably poor, are made poorer; a few scores of helpless widows and orphans, whose support has been taken from them by war, are turned out into a wilderness without shelter, on the eve of the most inclement season of the year; and that a pretty vengeance is wreaked on a people whose king was ignorant or careless of the proprieties of diplomatic intercourse. But will such barbarity as this aid the cause of Christianity and civilization in the East? Will it increase the respect and confidence of the natives towards England and Europe? Will it not rather convince them, more firmly than ever, that civilization man is the most dreadful of beasts of prey; and that the only relations which can be maintained with him are such as either side may be able to enforce, for its own interests or passions, by superior treachery and cruelty.

The Bristol of Steamers.

The following extract from the Boston Star & Herald points to the abandonment of the Bristol line of steamers. We know nothing of the matter except as it appears in the papers referred to, which says:

We understand that the North American Steamship Co. have abandoned the Niagara line and intend concentrating their entire force on this line, and that in future they will run a semi-monthly line from New York to San Francisco via Aspinwall and Panama.

We also learn that this company intend shortly to dispatch the fine new steamers Bristol and Providence (which boats were built at an expense of a million dollars each a year ago for the New York and Boston trade, and in which Mr. Webb is a large stockholder), to the Pacific, to run from Panama to San Francisco, under the new arrangement. These will be the soundest vessels ever built for the sound navigation, and are perfect packets. They will be a great addition to the Pacific fleet when they reach the coast in safety.

The Patent Medicine Business.

The profit of "patent medicine" is illustrated by some statements made in a recent report upon the manufacturing resources of Buffalo. It first mentions the success of Mr. Leveridge, the inventor of the "Wahoo Bitters." Another instance is that of Mr. Swan, a poor Philadelphia book-binder. He had a kind of sore on his leg, which troubled him very much. One day, as he was running over the pages of a book he was binding, his eye came across a recipe for making a syrup which it was said, would cure scrofula, king's evil and other phisical diseases. He copied it, got some of the material at the drug-shop, took the medicine, and in time was cured. He then made some for his friends and acquaintances and finally left his binder's counter and entered upon the manufacturing of "Swain's Panacea." It began to sell, and finally its fame spread wherever civilization had gone, and in some parts where the people do not know that blessing to this day. He paid enormously for advertising, and after many years he built up stores and mansions in Philadelphia, where they appear in all their magnificent proportions, the pride of the city and a monument to the memory and enterprise of his physician friend. He died and left his heirs a million or more.

Dr. David Jayne died recently in Philadelphia, leaving $2,000,000. He commenced about thirty-five years ago, as poor as could be, in putting up a round of what he called "family medicines," such as snuff, snuff, camphor, Indian, warm, expectorant, and a score of other similar preparations. Philadelphia is dotted with lowering structures erected by him. He had great taste for the tall and massive in art of architecture. His residence stands on Chestnut street, near the Schuylkill bridge. The office is of pure marble, and is the most exq. site mansion in Philadelphia.

Dr. Schaeck was a Philadelphian. He put up a syrup for curing consumption, and at one time kept a small office in Courtland street, New York. For many years, it was up-hill work to make the medicine take, but by dint of persistent advertising, he weathered the storm and is probably worth his hundreds of thousands by this time, all made from the sale of a patent medicine.

It may be thirty-five years ago that Dr. Benjamin Brantley made his debut in New York as vendor of pills. When he first started in Hudson street he was too poor to advertise, and for some time sold his pills by the single box until he acquired a sufficient sum to put a short advertisement in the Sun. As the pills began to sell, he increased the manufacture and established agencies, and soon allowed druggists to sell them as his agents. After a while, he found the druggists were selling more than he was manufacturing, and on investigation, proved that they were selling in imitation articles. This gave him a good chance to caution the public against counterfeits. At length, he made terms with the druggists, and the pills became a regular article on the price-list of wholesale houses. A site was purchased at Yonkers, where a factory was built, which supplied the demand. A store carried a load of bags of pills, boxes up, and brought a load of pills in boxes back. The doctor probably owns a steamboat to do his carrying now.

Dr. Ayers of Lowell, came very near ruin after his relatives after he started his pills, suspensory, and cherry peacock. It was a tedious time he had in fighting advertising bills, and other expenses. He spent what little he had, borrowed all his relatives had, till finally the medicines began to make returns, and from that time, some twenty years, he has been making money. He owns a paper mill, where he makes a precious paper, which he claims is not easily counterfeited, in which he wraps his various preparations. People who estimate his wealth into millions.

William B. Moffit was a silk merchant in New York. Besides being a bankrupt, his health had become very much impaired from overwork and trouble of one kind or another. In his extremity, he conceived the idea of making a pill and bitters. They cured his infirmities and made a millionaire of him in less than twenty years. He died some 3 years ago, but the heirs carry on the business as usual.

Perry Davis, the pain-killer man; Donald Kennedy, proprietor of the great medical discovery, who has refused any hundred thousand dollars for his right; Seth W. Fowle, who bought Wistar's balloon of wild cherry from Isaac Batts of Rochester; Dennis Barnes, of New York, the largest patent medicine depot in America; John H. Henbould, the Mexican medicine manufacturer, and a thousand others in the United States whom we have not time to mention, can count their hundreds of thousands, all made in the patent medicine trade. Isaac Batts, commenced by selling Sherman's lozenges and Peter's pills concoction. Patent medicines have made him a princely fortune.

Prayer of the friends of Rev. L. Bidwell, minister of the Chestnut street M. E. Church, to the number of nearly two hundred, paid him a friendly visit at his residence on Clifford street, on Friday evening. After a time spent in social conversation the company were invited into the vestry of the church, where Mr. Prescott, with a brief address, presented to Mrs. Bidwell a beautiful and valuable silver tea service. The company, after enjoying a beautiful supper, separated at a late hour.

The Augusta Republican says that the Republicans' success in Georgia is due to the white men of Northern Georgia, who were assailed at Hampton Falls, N. H., last Saturday. She did not recover her consciousness after the assault. Mr. Brown remains in the same condition as last night.

The Worcester Spy says that snow fell to the depth of six inches on the 8th of May, 1822, the ground was covered with snow, and on the 15th of May 1824, the ground was similarly covered and ice formed half an inch thick.

Robert Bonner, the New York Ledger man, returns an income of $298,111, the largest but one in the richest district in the United States—the eighth district of New York. Moses Taylor reports an income of $295,789.

The Washington correspondent of the Charleston (S. C.) Courier thinks that Mr. Pendleton will triumph in the Democratic National Convention, because he represents "reputation and paper money." He says also, that Pendleton is consistent in his position, for he was opposed to the war, and the abolition of slavery, and to the contraction of the war debt. A singular recommendation this for Union people.

A resolution requesting the President to order the seizure of the iron-clads Ontario and Columbia, on the ground that they are to be sold to the Peasant Government, now at war with a friendly Power, has passed the House yesterday.

President Johnson's upholstery bill, since his occupation of the White house, amounts to something over $12,000.

About Home.

IMPATIENCE.—The people of our city are just now busily engaged in getting ready for election week, and the fashionable season which follows so soon after, the season in which you will and the citizens are found putting their houses in order, and in not a few instances making additions and improvements suggestive of what is to come. Carpenters, painters, masons &c are in great demand and there is work for all who are disposed to earn their bread by the sweat of the brow.

In some sections very material and important changes have been made. The Fillmore House has disappeared and in its stead are several fine residences which Mr. Rider has, or will soon have, ready for occupancy. The two houses on Catherine street are really beautiful both for situation and construction and we predict will be among the most popular summer houses in the city. Binney street is lined with three-story residences, where a year ago all was vacancy, and other improvements are to be made which will render it still more pleasant and attractive.

On the Avenue & Bath road, Mr. John Padron has made some marked improvements in the estate formerly owned by Wm. S. Rose. A fine greenhouse and a large grapevines have been put up, the grounds graded, and the premises tidied generally, changing the whole appearance of that well known corner.

Quite a number of our summer residents are also engaged in making improvements upon their estates. The Avenue presents a lively scene, in strong contrast with the silence which reigns in those quarters during the winter, and everything indicates the usual life and gaiety of a Newport season.

From all we can hear we judge that the summer bids fair to equal all those which have gone before it in all that makes our city so noted at home and abroad.

STILL LOWELL.—The Neptune line of steamers have made another reduction in fare from Providence to New York. Henceforth they will charge one dollar for cabin passage and fifty cents for deck passage on their boats.

PRESENTATION.—We notice in the store windows of Messrs. Heath & Weston a very handsome Communion Service, consisting of a tankard, pair of golds, and pair of plates, which is to be presented by the Second Baptist Church of this city to the First Baptist Church recently organized at Jamestown. A Committee from the Second Church will go over to Jamestown to-morrow evening to make the presentation.

MINIATURE.—The Barnside Guards have elected the following as officers for the ensuing year.

Captain—Aaron G. Buchanan.

First Lieutenant—David B. Johnson.

Second Lieutenant—George S. Pierce.

The crockery sale at Aquidneck Hall concludes probably on Thursday next. Friday and Saturday two special sales of carpets, matting and fine goods will be held. Every housekeeper who is not already supplied should attend these closing sales. The object of the owner is to make a clearance, and if there is a fair competition every item of the stock will be sold.

VANDALISM AT THE WHITE MOUNTAINS.—It appears that Newport is not the only summer resort where acts of vandalism are committed. An exchange reports that John G. Brown and John Simonds of Wilmette have been arrested for entering the Summit House on top of Kearsarge, last Saturday, and nearly razing the windows, crockery, glassware, and every destructive article, by breaking them. Simonds gave bonds, and Brown, who is also suspected of firing the Winslow House last fall, has been committed to jail. The latter is said to confess the vandalism at the Summit House and to have hinted that the new Winslow House would be destroyed after it is rebuilt.

BANK DEFAMATION.—Another heavy bank defalcation became publicly known in Boston on Saturday, an investigation into the affairs of James D. Martin, cashier of the Hide and Leather Bank revealing that he was a defaulter to a large amount, and only stated at from sixty thousand to one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

BOSTON.—There was a heavy rain and snow storm Friday morning. The hills were whitened with snow on Kearsarge mountain to the depth of six inches.

THE HAMPTON FALLS.—Mrs. Brown, who was assaulted at Hampton Falls, N. H., last Saturday. She did not recover her consciousness after the assault. Mr. Brown remains in the same condition as last night.

The Worcester Spy says that snow fell to the depth of six inches on the 8th of May, 1822, the ground was covered with snow, and on the 15th of May 1824, the ground was similarly covered and ice formed half an inch thick.

Inters.

THE LADY IN ST. GEORGE'S seems to require a little time. From that where the memory of man now exists, there has been no record of the contrary. Only letters have been sent. Formerly men made their own bladders and few thought of using leather without first taking the leather.

There were days, however, when public health was not so good as it is now, and in consequence public law was not so strict, and consequently laws were not so strict. Drunks could then afford to be drunk and sell nothing but the middlings. Now it is not so.
